

Contents

|  |     |
|--|-----|
| Preface .....  | 9   |
| Acknowledgments .....  | 11  |
| Part 1  |     |
| Plato's Parmenides   |     |
| I My Thesis .....  | 15  |
| II 130b1–131a2: Ontological Ambiguities .....                                  | 20  |
| III 131a4–e5: Metaphysical Paradoxes .....                                     | 22  |
| IV 132a1–b2 and Speusippus .....   | 26  |
| V 132b8–c11: The Conceptualistic Interpretation .....                          | 29  |
| VI 132c12–133a6: Speusippus's Conception of Resemblance .....                  | 31  |
| VII 133b8–134a8: The 'Greatest Aporia' .....                                   | 34  |
| VIII The Middle Section .....  | 39  |
| IX 137c4–142a8/142b3–155e3: First and Second Deductions .....                  | 45  |
| X Speusippus as a Critic of the Platonic Principles .....                      | 48  |
| XI 155e4–157b5: Deduction IIA .....  | 54  |
| XII Excursus: Passing Over – A Hegelian Reflex .....                           | 59  |
| XIII 157b6–159b4/159b2–160b4: Deductions III and IV .....                      | 60  |
| XIV 160b5–163b6/163b7–169b4: Deductions V and VI .....                         | 63  |
| XV 164b5–165e1/165e2–166c5: Deductions VII and VIII .....                      | 66  |
| XIV Findings .....   | 69  |
| XVII Beyond the Parmenides .....  | 71  |
| XVIII Epilogue .....   | 73  |
| XIX Appendix: Stout and the Problem of Individual Characters .....             | 75  |
| Part 2  |     |
| Philosophical Knowledge and Conceptual Representation                   |     |
| Commentary on the Epistemological Excursus of the Seventh Letter |     |
| I Introduction .....   | 81  |
| II The Issue at Stake .....  | 84  |
| III The Real Thing .....   | 88  |
| IV The What-(It)-Is Question .....   | 93  |
| V Further Considerations .....   | 98  |
| VI The True Logos .....  | 106 |
| VII Remaining Problems .....   | 111 |
| Name Index .....   | 113 |