

Contents

|   |     |
|---|-----|
| Martin Dinges/Robert Jütte   |     |
| Introduction .....  | 7   |
| Angela Davis   |     |
| ‘When I was young you just went and asked your mother.’The changing role of friends and kin in the transmission ofknowledge about maternity in post-1945 Britain .....  | 15  |
| Willemijn Ruberg   |     |
| ‘Mother knows best’. The transmission of knowledge ofthe female body and venereal diseases in nineteenth-centuryDutch rape cases .....  | 35  |
| Susanne Hoffmann   |     |
| Dental care as daily routine: popularization and practiceof prophylactic dental hygiene inthe German-speaking world, c. 1890–1930 .....   | 49  |
| Gemma Blok   |     |
| The politics of intoxication. Dutch junkie unions fight againstthe ideal of a drug-free society, 1975–1990 .....  | 69  |
| Carmen M. Mangion  |     |
| ‘Give them practical lessons’: Catholic women religiousand the transmission of nursing knowledge inlate nineteenth-century England .....  | 89  |
| Karen Nolte  |     |
| ‘Local Missionaries’: Community deaconesses in earlynineteenth-century health care .....  | 105 |
| Andreas Weigl  |     |
| The rise and fall of the Fürsorgerin (female welfare worker) inAustrian public health policies. Theory and practice of a professionallink within a changing social and epidemiological framework ..... | 117 |
| John Stewart   |     |
| The medical mission of British child guidance 1918–1950:Theory and practice .....   | 135 |
| Andreas Golob  |     |
| Socratic stories as vehicles of health education. The case of JohannJakob Gabriel’s ‘Von den Mitteln die Gesundheit zu erhalten’ .....  | 151 |

Harry Oosterhuis

‘Not very happy and mixed with a lot of nervousness’.

The priest as therapist in catholic mental health care ..... 169